Approve President's Proposal To Open Money Channels.

PLAN MORE CREDIT

Aim Is To Aid Business by Expanding Bank Facilities.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Oct. 7—A momentous six point program for marshalling the nation's latent buying power into commercial channels today was laid before the American people with the unified indorsement of President Hoover and political captains

It included liberalization of the government's own rediscount restrictions to permit acceptance of certain classes of industrial securities now ineligible creation of a $500 000 000 corporation by private bankers to handle the frozen paper of insolvent banks and supply some cash soon to hard-pressed depositors, and expansion of the federal land bank system to provide more adequate credit accommodations for agriculture

Receives Approval

Placed before a colorful bipartisan conference of congressional leaders last night at the White House the administration's domestic plan won their support in principle While congressional action will be required eventually to carry the program to completion no special session is contemplated

The President failed however to gain sanction for him to discuss with Premier Laval of France on the latter's visit to Washington this month extension beyond next June of the inter-governmental debt moratorium In one of the flurries of opposition which gave the chief executive an insight into congressional floor debate, he was told that any discussion of this kind with the French premier would be on his own responsibility

Full support of the people for the program was asked by Mr Hoover

Comments on "Foolish Alarm"

In making public after midnight the proposals which had brought the Democratic and Republican leaders hurrying from all parts of the country, he said 'foolish alarm' was delaying the return of better times

'The prolongation of the depression by the succession of events in Europe' he said 'affecting as they have both commodity and security prices has produced in some localities in the United States an apprehension wholly unjustified in

Home Building Conference on Program Today

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Oct. 7 — Gratified at the reception given by congressional leaders to his proposals for spurring business President Hoover turned today to attack difficulties in the financing of home building

Secretary Lamont, as chairman of the President's conference on home construction and ownership headed those invited to meet at the White House to devise more ways of easing credit to allow increased building

The President is convinced credit for home building is not as satisfactorily organized as other branches of credit. To work against this situation he called in prominent real estate men from various sections.

William E Best of Pittsburgh, Hiram S Cody of Chicago Harry A Kahler of New York, Harry S. Russell of Springfield, O., Samuel N Reep of Minneapolis, Ernest P Trigg of Philadelphia, and W A Sterrett, Clarence M Wooley, James L. Madden and Clarence Dillon, of New York.

Some well-known bankers also were expected to attend.

Bears Down, Stocks Up
Mr. Storey Grieves Them
More Cheerful
Japan and Genghis Khan

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

YOU HAVE READ about short selling in Wall street by which is meant selling stocks that the seller does not own in the hope that values will go down For such short selling purposes brokers otherwise respectable lend stocks that their customers have purchased on the 'long' side, using their customers stocks to injure them.

Yesterday the Stock Exchange made up its mind to do something in a small way telling brokers they must let the exchange know when they or their customers sold stocks that they didn't own The result was the sharpest price recovery in two years Commodities as well as stocks went up

Mr Storey's Santa Fe road gave the bears yesterday one of those mauvais quarts d heure The conditions affect the Santa Fe profits in spite of excellent management as they affect every other railroad The bears said 'Go to now, let us sell Santa Fe short.' They did it and got their little necks twisted to the tune of 15 points with more to come probably Mr Storey declared the regular dividend.

NOTHING PRETTIER has been seen since old Commodore Vanderbilt referring to Drew and others, said I'll squeeze them scoundrels' and did They were selling one of his roads short, forcing the price from 150 below 20 The commodore let them sell short to their hearts content while he gathered in the stock. When he had it all, he invited them to settle and generously let them off at $285 a share when he might have asked $1000

CHEERFULNESS was born of President Hoover's meeting with congressmen of both parties to discuss remedies for the depression

Speculation as to topics to be discussed at the President's meeting will cease with this morning's newspapers When this was written yesterday afternoon it was believed that the plan was to set up a national 'finance control board' such as we had in the war, with the idea of fortifying banks and helping them to carry frozen assets and securities perhaps extending some relief to real estate mortgages

This would be no more than extending the financial power of the federal reserve which was intended for emergencies and has failed to live up to its reputation because it lacks flexibility

AERIAL TOUR IS ABANDONED BY LINDBERGHS

Will Start for Home Tomorrow by Steamer and Rail.

MORROW RITES TODAY

Coolidge and Many Other Notables at Services in Englewood.

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI Oct 7 — Colonel and Mrs Charles A Lindbergh abandoned their aerial tour of the far east today and announced they would start for home tomorrow by steamer and rail

The fliers made their decision after studying messages they received along with news of the death in Englewood N J, Monday of Senator Dwight W Morrow Mrs Lindbergh's father

In abandoning their aerial adventure, which they had counted upon to take them back to America by air they gave up a project which had occupied them since last July 29

Although disposition of their damaged monoplane was not mentioned in their announcement, the craft probably will be shipped back to the United States later

Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh made arrangements to sail tomorrow for Nagasaki, Japan on the steamer Shanghai Maru From Nagasaki they will go to Yokohama and sail Oct 10 on the liner President Jefferson for Seattle, where they will arrive Oct. 20

Their plane, damaged at Hankow when it capsized after being lowered from British aircraft carrier Hermes preparatory to a flood survey flight for the Chinese government, was left aboard that vessel

FUNERAL HELD TODAY

Leaders in Government and Business Attend Rites.

By The Associated Press

ENGLEWOOD N J, Oct. 7—Dignitaries of the nation came today to Englewood a hushed and grief bowed community, to pay a nation's tribute at the bier of Dwight W Morrow

The funeral setting was as simple and quiet as the man himself There was little ostentation to show that a United States senator who in four short years had risen to the heights of statesmanship was being buried That was as he would have wished it

The service at First Presbyterian church at 0 p m was for the public especially the Englewood neighbors

SAYS OPERATION MAY CURE HEART DISEASE

Dr. Crile of Cleveland Tells of New Method of Nerve Treatment for Cardiac Ailment.

Heart ailment diabetes peptic ulcers and other by-products of hyperthyroidism can be allayed by the surgeon's knife Dr George W Crile of Cleveland revealed to members of the Northwestern Ohio Medical association in the principal address of the eighty seventh annual session of the association here yesterday

By severing nerves leading from the adrenal glands, located immediately above the kidneys, the evils of hyperthyroidism can be eliminated more satisfactorily than by the partial or complete removal of the thyroid or adrenal glands themselves Dr Crile stated as he explained the results of his pioneer steps in nerve surgery, a field in which he is a recognized authority

Largely Successful

In 126 cases in which adrenal denervation as the new style of surgery is termed, the operations were 66 per cent successful Although the operation is a difficult one, it is looked to by Dr Crile as the most satisfactory means of relieving hyperthyroidism

As nerve surgery is most delicate and as yet a new branch of the profession, and since Dr Crile is a recognized authority on the subject, his talk was regarded as the highlight of the day's program in which eight other authorities in their respective fields spoke.

Leading up to the explanation of his theory of nerve surgery developed from experience with recent cases, Dr Crile explained that the thyroid glands control the amount of energy the body produces They are commonly known as the "damper of the human furnace." If the thyroid glands are over-developed, the individual has a keener and better developed mind, a more vivid

DEATH APPROACHING FOR THOMAS EDISON

Aged Inventor Slowly Losing Strength, Physician's Bulletin Reports.

By The Associated Press

WEST ORANGE, N J., Oct. 7—Thomas A Edison who is dying at his home was much weaker this morning

"This morning Mr Edison is much weaker," Dr Hubert S Howe said in his morning bulletin "It is impossible for him to sit without support. He finds it increasingly difficult to take fluids"

After issuing the bulletin Dr Howe said the aged inventor was in a light sleep or dose most of the time He indicated he regarded this as the beginning of a coma from which it is expected that within the next few days Edison will quietly slip into death.

"I found Mr Edison very much weaker physically," Dr. Howe said "When I came to this morning, he indicated he wanted to get up. The nurse and I propped him in his chair but immediately we had to carry him back to bed. He is in a light sleep most of the time, and it appears to be the beginning of the coma."

Dr. Howe made it clear that while he did not regard Edison's death a matter of hours, he did believe it to be only a few days off.

The inventor was no longer alert and he failed to brighten up when Dr. Howe entered his room this morning as he usually did. The physician said

READY FOR EVIDENCE IN CAPONE HEARING

Jury of Elderly Men Ready for Facts in Tax Fraud Hearing.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 7—The underworld earnings of Al Capone, Chicago's public enemy No. 1, date to come under the scrutiny of a federal court jury of 12 elderly businessmen, farmers, tradesmen, and small businessmen.

Seventy-five government witnesses will tell what they know of Capone's profits from liquor, gambling, and vice in Chicago. The jurors will decide whether the scarred-face gangster evaded paying income tax on the earnings.

Capone was in fine fettle for the trial, "feeling a lot better," he said, "since it really is started." He had assumed an attitude midway between all, and bent forward in intense interest at each court maneuver.

Speed with which the jury was selected, occupying only about five hours, indicated the government plans to rush the case against Capone to conclusion in no more time than possible.

The prosecution will attempt to prove that Capone defrauded the government of $[illegible] from [illegible] during the [illegible] view of the thousand-fold resources which we have for meeting any demand.

"Foolish alarm in these sections had been accompanied by wholly unjustifiable withdrawal of currency from the banks. * * * * There is no justification for any such situation in view of the strength of our banking system, and the strong position of our federal reserve system.

"Our difficulty is a diffusion of resources and the primary need is to mobilize them in such a way as to restore in a number of localities the confidence of the banker in his ability to continue normal business and to dispel any conceivable doubt in the mind of those who do business with him."

Another Conference Today

Following closely his conference with the congressional pilots and more intensive discussions with private financial leaders which have occupied him for days, the President called together today a group of representative real estate men and bankers for further conference at the White House.

He won approval for his immediate relief program last night amid a setting character of which has been seldom seen in America.

This unusual grouping of the legislative and administrative branches of the government in a common cause agreed to support, in addition to the three major points, appointment of regional bankers committees to aid generally in credit expansion; liquidation of some of the frozen assets of insolvent banks, and other institutions; and, if necessary, creation of a government agency similar to the old war finance corporation which operated during the emergency period to encourage domestic industry.

At the door of his study—in the room where Abraham Lincoln signed the emancipation proclamation—Mr. Hoover quietly received the 32 senators and representatives whom he had summoned. Most of them serve on committees dealing with the questions involved.

About the President were four of his own administrative advisers. They were Secretary Mellon, Undersecretary Mills of the treasury, Governor Meyer of the federal reserve board, and Walter Newton, one of his secretaries.

Debate Moratorium

As the President completed reading deliberately his prepared proposals, debate broke out over the proposed discussion of the moratorium with Premier Laval. It was challenged by Chairman Borah, and Representative Garner, Democratic house leader.

When the debate, with bitterness lacking and humor occasionally injecting itself into the serious discussions, ranged to the economic proposals party lines were disrupted. Democrat challenged Democrat and members of the chief executive's own party asked for further details upon the ramifications of the proposals.

As the debate spread, President Hoover was joined by Secretary Mellon and his other personal advisers in meeting questions with which they were familiar.

For the private corporation which will raise $500,000,000 to aid banks that have closed their doors, the President said $150,000,000 had been subscribed within the last few days by the New York City Clearing House association.

"I have been assured from other large centers," Mr. Hoover said, "as far as I have been able to reach, of their support also. I consider that it is in the national interest, including the interest of all individual bankers and depositors that all the banks of the country should support this movement to their full responsibility. It is a movement of national assurance and of unity of action in an American way to assist business, employment and agriculture."

The chief executive said he had last month requested the governors of the federal reserve banks to secure the cooperation of bankers in their territory to make some advances on the security of the assets of closed banks. He sought to have these institutions take over some of these assets in order that the receivers may pay some dividends to their depositors in advance of what would otherwise be the case pending liquidation.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—President Hoover is most gratified at the unity and support developed among members of congress as a result of last night's conference, it was said at the White House. He had received no outside reaction to his proposal as he returned to his office to begin the day's work.

BLINDED BY LIGHTS, MOTORIST EXPLAINS

That he was blinded by the headlights of an approaching automobile and did not see the car parked along the curb, was the plea of Frank Snyder, 56, of 458 Wilson avenue when he was arraigned in municipal court this morning on a reckless driving charge filed by George H. Hinkle, owner of an automobile damaged when it was struck by the Snyder car.

"I was only going about 10 miles an hour," Snyder told the court. He said he slid the wheels of his car 10 or 12 feet before striking the Hinkle car. He was released on his own recognizance for his appearance in court Tuesday at 9 a. m. imagination, a striking personality, and is "stepped up" in every way. The energy produced by these glands is applied to the body through the adrenal glands and the sympathetic nervous system.

Results of Activity

Hyperthyroidism, which is an undue stimulation or activity of the thyroid glands, in its severe stages develops heart troubles, diabetes, peptic ulcers and extreme nervousness sometimes mounting to hysteria.

Nerve surgery has been successful only in cases in which the nervousness is caused by undue activity of the thyroid gland, and not from stimulation from the frontal lobe of the brain in the form of worry or abnormal action of the lobe.

In the opening address of the day, Dr. Hugh G. Beatty of Columbus whose lecture was on cancer, called to the floor one of his patients whose larynx or vocal cords had been removed and replaced with a mechanical device. Although his "voice box" had been entirely cut away, the man was able, with the aid of a mechanical contraption employing the use of a vibrating reed, to make himself understood throughout the room.

Dr. V. H. Hay of of Lima was chosen president of the association for the ensuing year, and his home city was chosen for the 1932 meeting during a brief session following a banquet in the Hotel Harding ballroom last night. Dr. Hay succeeds Dr. E. H. Morgan of Marion. Other officers named last night were Dr. E. H. Porter of Tiffin, first vice president; Dr. C. M. Harrison of Napoleon, second vice president; Dr. E. L. Brady of Marion, treasurer, and Dr. C. E. Hufford of Toledo, secretary.

Chicago Man Speaks

Immediately after this session, Dr. Paul B. Magnuson of Chicago, Ill., discussed "Differential Diagnosis of Pain in the Back."

Dr. Crile's address was the first on the afternoon program. Following him was a talk on "Cardiac Infraction Without Pain" by Dr. Nathan S. Davis III of Chicago. This subject dealt with the clogging of blood vessels near the heart and the resulting decomposition of tissue.

"Neurological Aspects of Pernicious Anaemia" were discussed by Dr. M. A. Blankenhorn of Cleveland. His talk discussed methods, through observing nervous reactions, of making diagnoses of pernicious anaemia cases.

In a talk immediately following, Dr. Julius H. Hess of Chicago discussed a study of premature infants, covering morbidity, mortality, physical and mental development based on 1,035 cases.

The new and coming method of photographing kidneys was explained in detail by Dr. William F. Braasch of the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn. The method consists of injecting fluid into a vein leading directly to the kidneys. The injected fluid shows up in an X-ray photograph or in a fluoroscopic examination. The old method of injecting this fluid into the kidney was much more complicated. His talk was the last on the afternoon program.

Luncheon at Sawyer's

Other addresses given during the morning program with that of Dr. Beatty included a talk on ulcers by Dr. A. A. Berg, prominent New York surgeon of Mt. Sinai hospital, and a discussion on sterility and its treatment by Dr. Paul Titus of Pittsburgh.

Dr. Carl W. Sawyer was host to members of the association at his home for luncheon at noon.

Resolutions expressing appreciation of the Association to the Marion County Academy of Medicine, officers of the association, to Dr. and Mrs. Carl W. Sawyer for their cordiality and preparation of the program, and to visiting physicians for attending were voted upon recommendation of the resolutions committee.

More than 300 attended the meetings.

GRANGE HEARS TALK BY AGENT AT MEET

A talk on attendance was given by Floyd Barrett, insurance agent for Grand Prairie grange, at a meeting of the organization last night in the grange hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard McCurdy who were married recently, gave accounts of their wedding trip to Washington, D. C. D. W. Myers was in charge of the bulletin board for selling farm products.

The juvenile grange entertained the subordinate grange, following two numbers, piano selections by Leiah Beaver and a vocal solo by Mary Margaret Lyons. A miscellaneous shower will be given Mr. and Mrs. McCurdy at a meeting in two weeks.

WIFE FILES TWO CHARGES IN COURT

Two charges, one of assault and battery and a second of non-support, will be faced by Roy Wahlgren, 38, of 765 Bellefontaine avenue, when he is arraigned in municipal court today.

Wahlgren was arrested this morning on two affidavits both filed by his wife, Hazel Wahlgren, who charged in the one, that her husband had kicked and struck her and in the other that he had not contributed toward the support of their two minor children since Aug. 22.

will be gentler than was Genghis Khan and his three sons, who overran China with greatest ease, sending word to the unfortunate enemy, "By the decree of Heaven you are now as weak as I am strong."

Thanks to civil wars in China, Japan's Mikado may also say to China, "You are now as weak as I am strong."

To Hold Reception.

Members of the Greenwood Parent-Teachers association will sponsor a reception which will mark the opening of the season Friday night at the school building. The affair will honor new teachers in the school and new members of the organization. The program, which is scheduled to begin at 7:15 p. m., will include a talk on "Home and School a Partnership," by Supt. G. A. Bowman.

Faces Court Charge.

Elmer Alexander, arrested this morning on a non-support charge filed by his wife, Mary Alexander, pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Municipal Judge W. R. Martin and is being held under $100 bond for a hearing at 10 a. m. Saturday. Alexander is charged with having failed to support his two minor children.

Troops Show Increase of 18; Members Boosted from 334 to 502.

A gain since Jan. 1 of 18 troops and 334 scouts in the Harding area was shown last night in the report of Arthur S. Brooks, scout executive, at the fall meeting of the Marion Boy Scout council at the Y. M. C. A. The total area enrollment now stands at the figure of 28 troops and 502 scouts, the report showed.

A tentative date for the annual meeting of more than 100 scout leaders and officials of the area was set for Dec. 8 here. It is expected that Dwight H. Ramsey of Akron, regional scout executive, will make the address at the meeting. The annual election of officers of the area will be among the matters of business to come before the group.

Committees Report

Reports of several committees were received at last night's meeting, including that of the civic service committee, the leadership training committee and the camp committee.

For the purpose of furthering scout work in Marion and to provide additional activity, the council authorized the division of the city into four districts with commissioners to be appointed for each one. Each district will have its separate work and joint gatherings will be held at stated intervals.

Charles H. Isely, chairman of the camp committee, reported that 98 scouts from 18 troops attended Scout Camp John A. Owens during the last season and remarked that a fine record of advancement in scout work was made at the camp. The camp closed with a balance of $10.18 in the operating fund.

That the local scouts volunteered 1,018 hours of service to various causes in Marion since last April was shown in the report of Sam Rosenberg, chairman of the civic service committee.

Dorsey Reports

Walter A. Dorsey, chairman of the leadership training committee, was granted permission to carry on this fall the work of the training course which was operated last spring with 28 men receiving certificates from the national council on the completion of the work. An advanced six-weeks course is planned for this fall for all men interested in th scout program.

Wilbur Symes, scout commissioner, was chairman of the meeting.

300 Attend Meeting of Marion D. A. V. Chapter

Local Disabled Veterans' Organization Holds Booster Session in Red Men's Hall To Promote Forget-Me-Not Sale Saturday.

Three hundred Marion men and women attended the Booster meeting of Marion Chapter No. 22, Disabeled American Veterans, last night in Red Men Hall in preparation for the Forget-Me-Not drive Saturday.

Veterans of three wars, Congressman Grant E. Mouser, Mayor L. Don Jones and George F. Farling of Cleveland, national liaison officer, were on the platform. Francis Layton, commander of Cooper Post No. 117, G. A. R., Dr. J. W. McMurray, a veteran of the Spanish-American and World wars, and members of the D. A. V., represented the three wars.

Mr. Farling, who is spending today and Thursday in Marion, assisting the D. A. V. members with their claims, gave a brief history of the D. A. V. as an organization, both local and national, and read statistics from the Cleveland bureau to show th work that has been done in the past two months, nearly $1,000,000 is

Review of Work

From the Cleveland offices, every given out to disabled veterans. Through the Cleveland offices last year, 47,035 claims were filed, 15,142 were allowed, 22,462 were disallowed, 3,106 were denied compensation and 3,325 claims were left pending.

Congressman Mouser specifically pointed out the liaison services of the D. A. V. in contacting the claims of the soldiers with the Washington, D. C. bureau. He said: "We fought for liberty and it came about in the sacrifice made through the soldiery of our nation and the gallant principle of our women and those holding the home fires." He paid tribute to the Forget-Me-Not drive, saying, "Let us not forget so soon our disabled, their widows and their orphans."

To Mayor L. Don Jones, went the honor of paying for the first Forget-Me-Not sold in Marion. In a brisk talk lauding the small flower and the meaning behind its use in the drive, Mayor Jones asked that he might be the first to purchase a flower here. His Forget-Me-Not will be delivered to his office early Saturday morning. He asked the cooperation of every citizen of Marion to put the sale across.

The meeting was opened by Fred Miller, commander of Marion chapter of the D. A. V. The audience stood and sang "America," after which Rev. B. E. Hillman of Full Gospel assembly, chapter chaplain, gave the invocation.

16 Girls Sing

Sixteen girls from the Marion County Children's home, sang two numbers on the program, "The Vacant Chair," and later, "Just Before the Battle, Mother." Commander Layton was introduced, and following the introduction of Dr. McMurray as toastmaster, Mr. Layton was called to a seat of honor on the platform. He gave a short, but inspiring talk, paying tribute to the D. A. V.

A short comedy skit was given by Bosh and Williams, Marion entertainers.

At 9 p. m. the entire audience rose and faced the east in silent prayers for the men who did not come back from "over there."

Among other statistics given by Mr. Farling was that from the United States Marine hospital. There are now 165 beds available at the hospital, but there is a waiting list of 400 men.

Mr. Farling is consulting with all disabled American veterans in the offices of Mouser, Young, Mouser & Wiant, attorneys. He will be in the offices Thursday from 9 p. m. to 3 p. m.

Erie Order To Call for Extra Baggage Coaches

An order has been placed with the Erie railroad offices here, which when acted upon in the near future, will call into service six to eight baggage cars with accompanying crews.

The company placing the order was the Drs. Hess & Clark, Inc., of Ashland, O., manufacturers of food for poultry and livestock, who will launch an extensive national advertising campaign within the next few weeks. The material for this campaign will require the services of these cars for shipping through the division to eastern and western points for distribution over the country.

Guests were Mrs. A. Evans of San Francisco, Calif., Miss Edna Sautter, Miss Adams, Miss Irene Reynolds and Mrs. Daisy Stouffer.

PLEAD NOT GUILTY TO ROBBERY CHARGE

Waive Examination and Are Held to Grand Jury.

Hearings of Harold Browning, 21, and Beecher Williams, 29, both of 320 Kenton avenue, on charges of robbery in connection with the holdup of four youths early last Saturday morning, came to an abrupt close in municipal court this morning when they waived examination and were bound over to the grand jury by Municipal Judge W. R. Martin. The amount of the bond has not been fixed as noon today.

The four boys, Glenn Moore, of 196 east George street, Harry Stumbo of 382 north Main street, James Fellebaum of 457 north Greenwood street and William Wilson, told the police they had parked their cars along the curb on Silver street early Saturday morning when the two men drove up in an automobile and after attempting to borrow cigarets and had been refused an offer of some beer, they ordered the boys to alight and took 30 cents from one 5 cents from another. The boys furnished the police with the license number of the car and a description of the men.

DENY FAILURE TO SUPPORT FATHER

Charged with having failed to contribute toward the support of their father, James Ravencraft, Mrs. Mary Stumbo of north State street and Frank Ravencraft of Smith street, were arraigned before Municipal Judge W. R. Martin this morning. Both pleaded not guilty and were released on their own recognizance for their appearance in court at 1 p. m. Friday. The two were arrested on affidavits filed by Eva Sprouse.

Wall street's response to President Hoover's plan today. Prices of many leading issues again advanced sharply and opening transactions ranged from 1,000 to 10,000 shares in numerous leading issues.

United States Steel common opened at 371 for 3,000 shares, off 12 cents, but other pivotal issues were strong. Some of the opening transactions were as follows: 10,000 General Motors at $26, up $1; 8,000 General Electric at $30.12, up $1.75; 300 American telephone at $134.50, up $2.12; 1,000 American Can at $81, up 75 cents. Prices began to taper off under profit-taking as the first flush of the rally paled and moderate reactions appeared in principal shares, which had soared $1 to $5 above the previous close. Trading was extremely active.

Each Winning Series Player To Get $4,484

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 7.—Each winning player will receive $4,484.24 and each loser $2,989.49 as his share of the 1931 world series pool, if it is split 30 ways.

The Cardinals have already decided to cut their series "melon" on this basis but the Athletics may have fewer slices, thereby making each player's share larger.

The players' pool, derived from a big portion of gate receipts from the first four games only, amounts to $320,309.46. It is the smallest since 1922. The series rivals split 70 per cent of this on a 60-40 basis. The other 30 per cent goes to the clubs finishing second, third and fourth in each major league.

The clubs split $96,091 as follows: $24,022.75 to each of the second place teams, New York Giants and Yankees; $16,015.17 each to third place teams, Washington Senators and Chicago Cubs; $8,007.58 each to fourth place outfits, Brooklyn and Cleveland.

CITY CONSIDERS POSTER BILL

Measure Referred to Committee; Plan To Pave Streets Taken Up.

Special to The Star
BUCYRUS Oct. 7—An ordinance making it unlawful for out of town concerns to distribute or post advertising matter here without a license brought forth considerable discussion at council meeting Tuesday night resulting in the council body returning the ordinance to the committee for further consideration

The ordinance was presented to council by the merchants division of the chamber of commerce

Street repairs following the removal of Cleveland Southwestern Railway tracks were discussed Mayor Schuler indorsed the use of concrete explaining that in so far as the street was already 17 years old it would be the most economical solution with the thought in mind to asphalt the entire street within four or five years

The question of issuing bonds for the improvement of the section where tracks are located in the down town district was discussed and referred to the finance committee

Mayor Arthur Schuler reported to council that complaints had been received in the office asking that steps be taken to abolish the railroad crossing bell at Sears street. Upon the suggestion by Mayor Schuler that the crossing be abandoned the question was placed in the hands of the plating committee

$400,000 Hoard Found in Woman's Apartment

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, Oct. 7—A little old lady of 93 years wondered today why the law should take her hoard of $400,000 in cash from its numerous hiding places in her modest hotel room

"I don't want anybody to take care of me" said Mrs. Ida E. Wood who once reigned over Fifth avenue salons and danced with King Edward VII when he was the crown prince. I'm 93 years old—and that's old enough for me to take care of myself

A bewildering treasure was revealed yesterday when officers, acting under a court order declaring Mrs. Wood incompetent, searched her quarters at the Herald Square hotel

Acts Reluctantly

Confronted with the court order Mrs. Wood surrendered her treasure reluctantly From the folds of her old fashioned frock she produced a parcel In it were bills of large denomination—many of them half a century old Altogether there was $400,000 in cash For years she had kept it, not trusting banks or investments.

There were bills long since out of circulation. In the room, too were trunks filled with laces, deflated bustles, satin ball gowns watches studded with diamonds, taffeta petticoats, dance programs tiny shoes and jewelry

Relatives Surprised

Her relatives often had heard her refer to her money but even they were surprised at the size of the fortune

Mrs Wood sprightly despite her years, is only five feet tall She has lived alone for many years.

The New York Daily News which Mrs Wood's husband bought in 1860 and ran as a Democratic newspaper had no connection with the present New York Daily News

After Mr Wood's death his widow managed the paper herself by telephone and pneumatic tube reading the proofs and directing its editorial policy Eventually however she relinquished control of the publication and it was sold to Munsey

STATE INVESTIGATES NEW CRIME ANGLES

Alleged Mt. Gilead Dope Ring Probed; Prosecutor Denies Reports.

Special to The Star
MT GILEAD Oct 7—Further investigations of law enforcement in Morrow county may come as a result of the activities of state investigators here this week It is known that a number of criminal activities are being probed including an alleged dope ring

Prosecuting Attorney Fannie Myers said today that she could not say at this time whether the operators of a number of confiscated slot machines in Cardington Edison Johnsville Fulton and Williamsport would be prosecuted for the offense

The state investigators headed by B J Liccardi who came here at her request, were not asked Miss Myers said to probe anything except the Blake-Davis Brown shooting affray at Fulton and an arson case The slot machine confiscations and the arrest for a liquor violation were made she said on the agents own volition She denied that any county office or officer was being investigated at her request Liccardi said however that the activities of certain officers were being looked into as far as their enforcement of the law is concerned

The prosecutor said Liccardi was not brought here for a law enforcement probe

It was learned today that Ralph Hoard who was fined $200 on a charge of selling intoxicating liquor Saturday was on the state payroll as a prohibition enforcement agent.

BOILERMAKERS MAY GET SURPRISE FROM ILLINOIS SATURDAY

Kizer Drills Purdue Hard, Fearing Upset at Hands of Zuppkemen.

BY PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer.

CHICAGO, Oct. 7—While Notre Dame and Northwestern engage in their big argument along Chicago's lake shore Saturday, the "old fox" of Big Ten football, Coach Bob Zuppke, of Illinois, will emerge from his mysterious hideout by sending his sophomore team against the rightly feared Boilermakers of Purdue.

"Zup" always has been the "mystery man" of the Big Ten football wars and this year is no exception. Purdue is worried and so are the rival Big Ten teams, who must face the Illini.

As in 1927, when he startled the conference by winning the championship with a green eleven, Zuppke has almost an all-sophomore team again this year, which has shown flashes of exceptional promise in the long drills.

Purdue Drills Hard

Purdue drilled hard for the game and against an upset. Coach Noble Kizer had his full strength and planned to shoot the works of a forward and lateral pass attack Saturday. There were a few injuries in the Illini camp but all hands were expected on deck for the battle at Ross-Ade stadium.

Notre Dame's hopes of stopping Northwestern's wildcats bounded upward today following verified reports that "Reb" Russell, Northwestern's star fullback may be out of the battle because of back bruises suffered in the Nebraska game and the improved showing of the Notre Dame forwards. In last night's scrimmage, the Irish reserves stopped every Northwestern play and Coach "Hunk" Anderson became so enthusiastic that he intimated he may start them Saturday.

Despite stories of Chicago's offensive weakness, Coach Harry

"BIG JARGE" ALLOWS CARDS TWO BINGLES IN EVENING SERIES

And Both of These Go to That Rampaging Rookie Outfielder, "Pepper" Martin.

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7—"Big Jarge" Earnshaw, one of the greatest pitchers ever to tread a world series mound had brought the smile back today to the face of an aged gentleman pointing toward his third consecutive championship of the world.

The old gentleman was Connie Mack, pilot of the world champion Athletics, and as he sat in his office today, pondering his pitching selection for the fifth game of the world series with the St. Louis Cardinals, there was nothing but joy shining out through every wrinkle in his 68-year old face.

Stepping into the breach where the mighty Robert Moses Grove had failed, Earnshaw turned in one of the world series masterpieces of all time yesterday to riddle the National league champions with his fast ball, baffle them with his curves, humiliate them with his control, and swing the Athletics back from abyss of almost certain defeat to an even footing again with the Cardinals. They have two victories apiece after the first four games of one of the most sensational world series of all times.

It Was Do or Die

It was do or die day for the mighty Athletics yesterday.

It was a day when the Athletics, thirsting for three straight world championships, if only to Answer the prayer of a grand old man seeking his last baseball record, suddenly found themselves, the first American champions to trail the National league rulers in five years, struggling on the brink of world series catastrophe. They talked the situation over among themselves, they listened to Connie's plea, watched the lanky old fellow with the thin esthetic face of a priest tap Earnshaw on the shoulder and say:

"George, you've got to do it for me, just this one thing."

Then they went out to tackle the Cardinals in the fourth game of the series, the second at Shibe park, and the next to the last effort they could make if the riotous Cardinals, riding the high wave of two of the finest pitching efforts any pair of world series hurlers ever put together, kept up the amazing drive to victory.

They came grimly, defiantly, and the manner in which they ripped into Sylvester Johnson, Cardinal hurler. Jimmy Foxx hit a tremendous home run. Simmons, Dykes, Bishop and Miller all got the range as the A's emerged from their slump.

Martin Hits Twice

Leading the comeback surge, magnificent in his power, was Earnshaw as he turned back all but one of the Cardinals, John Pepper Martin, while the big gunners of Connie's crew, finding the range at last against the pitching of Sergeant Gabby Street's second stringers, battered out a 3 to 0 victory.

Earnshaw pitched perhaps the greatest game in any world series history, mowing the Cardinals down to add another two-hit classic to a string of pitching performances that knows no equal in past series history.

There was only one fly in his ointment? the chunky dogged figure of Martin, freshman outfielder who is playing this series for the Cardinals, his first in major league baseball, as no rookie ever has before him. Just as Earnshaw inspired with a new zeal for victory, love for his aged benefactor, Connie Mack, was pitching the greatest game of his career, so was the grim, hawk-faced youngster from the wide open stretches of Oklahoma battling eagerly and fearlessly for his own private fetish.

Cloisters Helpless

While the veterans of the Cardinal cloisters, the league champion Chick Hafey and his rival Sunny Jim Bottomley, were vainly poking at Earnshaw's dazzling speed and uncanny curves, lofting them feebly into the air, or poling them vainly through the dirt to the infielders, "Pepper" took his cut freely and whole-heartedly and smacked "Big Jarge" for two hits, the entire Cardinal quota. He singled in the fifth and after getting the entire A's defense on edge easily stole second base, his fourth theft of the series, to come up after a headlong dive into the bag covered with dirt, grinning.

That blow ended Earnshaw's chances for a no-hit game but he still had an opportunity to earn home under the two-hit figure Burleigh Grimes set yesterday, until "Pepper" strode to the plate to start the eighth with a double.

OHIO STATE AGREES TO GAME WITH IRISH

However, Big Ten Officials Must Sanction It First, Buckeye Head Rules.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 7—Sanction of the Western conference must be obtained if Ohio State university plays a post-season charity football game with a non-conference team.

Such a game, preferably with Notre Dame at the Cleveland municipal stadium, was proposed by former Governor Harry L. Davis and T. H. Towell of Cleveland during a conference with the university trustees and L. W. St. John, athletic director.

St. John explained that Big Ten members had been given permission to play charity games among themselves but that a non-conference engagement would require further modification of the rules. He added, however, that Ohio State would consider the Cleveland proposal if sources other than the university obtain the sanction of the Western conference ruling body.

Former Governor Davis took encouragement from the latter statement and announced "we will go ahead with our plans."

My WINNING PLAY

Northwestern plays Notre Dame Oct. 10 at Chicago. In addition to being one of the outstanding games of the year, the contest has an especial significance in that it will provide a test of the comparative merits of the Warner and Rockne system.

This is the first of a twice-weekly series, of football articles written by leading coaches themselves. For the initial installment Dick Hanley of Northwestern makes clear what the Warner system is and tells how his team will use it against the "Ramblers" and other foes.

* * *

BY DICK HANLEY
(Head Football Coach, Northwestern University)
By The Associated Press

EVANSTON, Ill.—The best way to advance a football, it is universally agreed, is to carry it through the spaces which are least thickly populated by the enemy.

It is the aim of all so-called "systems" to create—by speed, deception or power, or all three—these open spaces in the enemy defense.

The Warner system, which we employ at Northwestern, originated from the need of the offense to "put the pressure" on the strongest defensive man, the tackle. The original grouping of a football team on offense could mean only "power inside," because nobody was flanking the defensive tackle.

Easy To Work

That made it comparatively simple for a pair of good tackles, augmented by the ends, to keep all the enemy plays on the inside. They could move straight in and check any attempts to run the ends, since they weren't threatened by any outside pressure.

Glenn S. "Pop" Warner invented his "wingback" formation in 1906. This formation featured an unbalanced line and a single wingback which virtually made it an eight-man line. It forced the defense to spread itself and put a heavy load on the defensive tackle on the "strong side."

With the defense, in shifting to meet this condition, left gaps that invited offensive thrusts, close line plays could be used with virtually no loss of power. If the defense overshifted, the Warner team could strike back off the weak side by means of a simple reverse play.

Then in 1913 Warner, coaching the Carlisle Indians, introduced the double wingback—a back a yard beyond and a yard behind each end. Originally Pop used a balanced line with this, but not for long.

Double Wingback

The double wingback, which we believe is the most effective formation in the Warner system, provides virtually a nine-man line and causes still greater spreading of the defense than the single wingback.

The basic plays are reverses with the wingbacks frequently coming back and around to become ball-carriers, pass-receivers, passers or blockers.

We give our signals in a huddle and are in no hurry to start our plays. We prefer to have the enemy see which side is "strong" so that they will set themselves. We can tell from the way they get set

Ohio U. Opens Defense of Crown Against Denison

BY RALPH TEATSORTH
United Press Staff Correspondent

The mid-autumn struggle to prevent Don Peden's Ohio university football team from winning its third consecutive Buckeye conference championship will begin Saturday at Granville, O.

Contestants in the opening game of the Buckeye's seventh football season are the title-clutching Ohioans and Denison university.

The most optimistic Denison followers do not expect their team to win. It was a foregone conclusion in most circles today that Ohio would inaugurate its conference campaign with a rather easy victory.

Supported by a capable, agile forward wall, Ohio will send against Denison a power backfield, with almost the same players who helped win the 1930 title. Clark Gabriel, versatile quarterback; Sintic and Russ Kepler, halfbacks, and Leonard Sadosky, fullback, form Ohio's advancing committee.

There was some doubt however, if Sadosky would be able to start the game. He was hurt in the Butler game last week.

At Denison, Coach George Rich, was attempting to straighten out the fallacies brought out in the team's defeat by Hillsdale. Rich has not tried to inject any false hopes into his squad, but has been seeking to bring out his players' best for his first Buckeye game.

In the six years of the Buckeye Athletic association's existence, Ohio Wesleyan has had a clear claim to the football title twice, Ohio university twice and Wittenberg once. The other year the championship was divided by Ohio Wesleyan and Wittenberg.

Other Buckeye teams will play hard games this week. Ohio Wesleyan will travel east to meet Syracuse, the team that defeated Hobart 49 to 0 last week. Wittenberg will play an intersectional game with Centre college of Danville, Ky., at Springfield Friday night.

Wabash will play Miami at Oxford and Depauw will meet Cincinnati at Cincinnati in unofficial conference games Saturday.

ROCHESTER AGAIN BEATS SAINTS 4-3

By The Associated Press

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 7—A single victory stood between Rochester and their second successive "little world series" championship today.

The International league champions, led by Billy Southworth, gained a commanding lead of four games to one by turning back St. Paul, American Association title-holders, yesterday, 4 to 3. St. Paul now is faced with the almost impossible task of winning all four remaining games. Another victory for Rochester automatically will end the series.

TOURIST CLUB OPENS SEASON

Galion Organization Meets at Casey Home.

GALION, Oct. 7—Tuesday evening marked the opening meeting for the year of the Tourist club at the home of Miss Coral Casey on Grand street. Miss Laura Koppe was reelected president. The program was of the current department and Mrs. Louis Dietrich read a paper. Mrs. A. D. Durnell and Miss Koppe also read papers. Miss Naoma Tracht sang two vocal solos.

* * *

A prettily appointed dinner was served Tuesday evening at the Galion Country club for members of the Merry Makers club and one guest. Mrs. Charles Mulligan Centers were placed for twelve. The evening hours were spent in cards and also a theater party. Mrs. Raymond Burt will entertain the club in two weeks.

* * *

Needle work and social chat occupied the members of the Needle Workers club Tuesday afternoon when they were entertained at the home of Mrs. C. D. Molder on Grant street. Garden flowers decorated the home and a delicious luncheon was served. Mrs. Lucile Mellett will entertain the club next month at her home on north Market street.

* * *

John A. Steele was surprised when members of a Birthday club assembled at his home on west Church street to remind him of his birthday anniversary. Fifteen were present. Bunco prizes were won by Jean McKinley and Harry Schupp.

* * *

About 30 members of the choir of the First United Brethren church assembled in the parlors of the church last night for a dinner party. Choir rehearsal followed.

SOX WIN TITLE

American League Tailenders Beat Cubs in Chicago Series.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Oct. 7—Dame Suerte and his luckless White Sox were kicked around unmercifully by the American league clubs all season, had their big day at last today.

They were Chicago city champions for the first time in 22 years, their pockets were lined by the big end of the players' end and they had a big time jeering Cub followers by wishing they played in the National league instead of the American. Baseball is something more to be happy about as it was generally believed it might after all be re-hired as manager of the team for 1932.

A noisy six run rally in the fourth inning, backed by Al Thomas' four-hit pitching, gave the White Sox a 7 to 2 victory in the seventh and final game of the world series at Wrigley field yesterday.

LEONARD LAUNCHES COMEBACK WITH K.O.

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, Oct. 7—Sugar Ray Leonard has started his comeback campaign with a knockout victory over Pal Silvers of Brooklyn, one of the jeers of a crowd of 15,000 at the principal accomplishment Leonard floored Silvers in the first round of their 10 round scrap last night and Silvers stayed down for the full count although experts thought the blow was not anything but hard. At the count of 10, Silvers bounced to his feet apparently unhurt and ready to continue. Referee Arthur Donovan waved him to his corner and raised Leonard's hand as the winner.

Benny, a bit plump around the whistline, showed the effects of his seven-year layoff from the ring.

Crestline Man Fined

BUCYRUS, Oct. 7—Max Wood, 22, of Crestline was fined $50 and costs by Probate Judge J. S. Miller Monday on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of his 14-year-old girl. Ruth Wood, 18, also of Crestline was placed on probation.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meat, Grain, Livestock

Two new arrivals and practically no change in price were the opening points in today's market. Kale, a new arrival on local markets, is selling for seven cents a pound. Dealers report a good supply. Parsnips, likewise new on the market, are reported in good supply with prices at six cents a pound at most dealers. Homegrown tomatoes are slightly higher today with prices mostly at four or five cents a pound. Bulk turnips are still in good demand with a similar supply, but the price remains the same with many dealers asking five cents for two pounds.

Keifer pears, recent arrivals, are reported in good supply with prices at three pounds for 10 cents. Several grades of California oranges are offered, with prices ranging from 19 cents a dozen to 63 cents a dozen. While no definite time has been given, dealers are expecting Florida oranges within a week or two.

WHEAT STEADY AFTER GAIN

Prices Advance in Early Trading, but Quiets Later in Day.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Oct. 7—Grain prices showed an early upward trend today, influenced by stock market advances and by results of last night's White House conference. Profit taking sales on bulges, however, checked the advance, and notice was taken that Liverpool wheat quotations were up less than expected. Opening unchanged to 1¼ cents higher the Chicago wheat market afterward held near the initial limits. Corn started at a shade decline to ⅝ advance and subsequently continued firm.

For at least the time being, most wheat traders appeared content to regard yesterday's advance of 2¼ cents a bushel as having largely discounted before hand the immediate effect of the new measures decided upon at the White House to aid the business situation. Setbacks from today's fresh advances were largely confined to fractions of a cent much of the day, with the market steadying at but little below yesterday's top level. Continued slowness of export demand for North American wheat, however, acted as somewhat of a drag on values.

A further handicap to wheat bulls was word of a slight increase of Argentine planting as compared with preliminary forecasts. One explanation of laggard action of the Liverpool wheat market today was that receipts in Great Britain were too large to justify much advance. On the other hand, primary domestic receipts of wheat today showed a decided falling off both as against last week and a year ago. Corn and oats swayed with wheat.

Provisions responded to upturns in hog values.

O. W. U. STUDENTS HEAR WET LEADER

By The Associated Press
DELAWARE, O., Oct. 7—The prohibition question is "largely one of the reforming evils in our government," Captain W. H. Stayton, chairman and founder of the Association Against the Eighteenth Amendment, told Ohio Wesleyan students attending a class on "prohibition as a government problem" last night.

Stayton declared the state, not the federal government, should have the authority to regulate liquor sales.

Former Society Woman Now Gandhi's 'Shadow'

Miss Madeline Slade, daughter of an English admiral, wouldn't have traveled this way half a dozen years ago. But she's Mahatma Gandhi's disciple now, and here she is, busy with her cotton winder, on the deck of the steamer that took Gandhi to London.

By The Associated Press
LONDON—Six feet of stalwart womanhood—that is Shrimati Mira Bhen, who shadows Mohandas K. Gandhi, the Mahatma of India's millions.

The "Bhen" suffix to her Hindu name means "sister." It typifies the change in her life since she forsook her name—Madeline Slade—and the gaiety of Mayfair's sophisticated social whirl for the sun-like existence in Gandhi's Ashram, or college, at Ahmedabad.

She had to serve a year's probation before the Mahatma would accept her as a full-fledged member.

Now she is a sort of combination nurse, housekeeper and supersecretary to the gnomish wisp of a man who is trying to create an independent nation out of the big British dependency.

She prepares his simple diet, washes the few garments that suffice him, takes dictation for documents and letters and when in London accompanies him on his travels through the slums where until half a dozen years ago she went only from drawing room to drawing room.

When none of these affairs occupies her, she sits and gazes at Gandhi or curls up at his feet for a nap.

He sometimes has to dismiss her when callers demand his exclusive attention or when his own meditations call for solitude.

She is six feet tall. Freckles bridge her prominent nose. A Hindu shawl shields her head, close cropped in token of her vow of celibacy. White draperies hang to ample feet shod in broad sandals.

Until her conversion to Gandhiism her life was that of any other daughter of a prominent British personage. Her father was the late Admiral Sir John Warren Slade, who, after retiring in 1917, became an official of one of the world's largest oil companies.

Madeline divided her time among London, Paris and Borne, taking part in the social functions of her set. Then she changed suddenly.

She says that she was converted in Paris overnight, writing the next morning to offer her services to Gandhi. His acceptance on probationary terms began the struggle against objections of her family—but to India she went.

Years of living in a bare room, sleeping on a rough floor, cooking her food and spinning the cloth from which to fashion her clothes fortified her in her new life.

When Gandhi marched to the sea in his civil disobedience campaign, he left the Ashram in her charge. She administered it through an outbreak of smallpox.

Her selection as one of his entourage when the Mahatma's "inner voice" decided him to go to London for the round-table conference followed naturally.

Election of officers and trustees and transaction of routine business will come before the association.

BRUENING ORDERED TO FORM MINISTRY

Entire German Cabinet Resigns in Face of Repeated Attacks.

By The Associated Press
BERLIN, Oct. 7—President Von Hindenburg accepted the resignations of the Bruening cabinet today and immediately authorized Chancellor Bruening to form a new ministry which would consolidate the government's position with the Reichstag.

The president commissioned his chancellor to draw up a non-partisan cabinet whose members would be named strictly on a personal basis and without regard for their party affiliations. Herr Bruening accepted the mandate and went to work with a free hand to choose his new co-workers.

The resignations followed by one day that of Foreign Minister Curtius who withdrew in the face of attacks on his handling of the Austro-German customs pact.

The present cabinet was installed on March 29, 1930, and has struggled with some of the most difficult problems in Germany's post war history. Many of its members were considered to be liabilities because of the strong criticism from left and right factions and their withdrawal constituted a house-cleaning in preparation for the convening of the Reichstag next Tuesday.

MAN SOUGHT AS EMBEZZLER FOUND

By The Associated Press
LOS ANGELES, Calif., Oct. 7—Ray S. Shuey, accused of embezzling $160,000 from a Dayton, O., company of which he formerly was a vice president and secretary was taken into custody here last night and booked for return to Dayton under a requisition granted at Sacramento by Governor James Rolph. Two Dayton detectives came here for Shuey.

JIMMY DOOLITTLE PLANS SPEED TRIP

By The Associated Press
OTTAWA, Oct. 7—Major Jimmy Doolittle, former army ace, expects to spend one day in three countries next week, probably Monday, having breakfast here, luncheon in Washington, D. C., and dinner in some Mexican city.

Plans for a 2,400-mile speed flight from Ottawa to an unannounced Mexican destination were revealed today by L. W. Meekins, commercial attache at the United States legation.

Gas Rate Accepted.

TIFFIN, O., Oct. 7—The Ohio Fuel Gas Co., tentatively accepted an offer by the Tiffin city council of a two-year contract for natural gas at the current rate of 60 cents.

GUNSHOT KILLS CHILD

GALLIPOLIS, O., Oct. 7—A shotgun in the hands of the five-year-old son of Err McClaskey of Bidwell discharged accidentally, killing McClaskey's nine-year-old son.

Bank Clearings.

Bank clearings for yesterday were given at the clearing house today as $48,624.63.

JORDAN ACCUSED IN BUCYRUS THEFT

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 7—Willard Jordan, 30, of Ashland, O., held under a charge of first degree murder in the slaying of Policeman Leslie Green, also was charged today with burglary of a tire shop at Bucyrus about which police had sought to question him.

TOLEDO GANG GUNS COST LIVES OF TWO

Two Alleged Gangsters Slain, One Seriously Hurt in Street Shooting.

By The Associated Press
TOLEDO, O., Oct. 7—Two alleged Toledo gangsters were slain early today as the outcome, police said, of an invasion of the city by out-of-town racketeers.

The victims, Abe (The Punk) Lubitsky, 23, for years a Toledo police figure, and Norman Blatt, 28, were shot to death as two automobiles pulled up beside theirs when they stopped for a traffic light.

Harry Abrams, 23, who was riding with Lubitsky and Blatt, was seriously wounded.

Police said members of a gang headed by Pete Licavoli, now held in Detroit in connection with the killing of Gerald Buckley, radio announcer, were suspected of being the slayers. Detectives said friends of Licavoli's might have blamed Lubitsky for his arrest here a few days ago.

Abrams, who was shot twice in the chest and once in the arm, said that as Lubitsky stopped their car, a large sedan drove up to the right side and a smaller one stopped at the left. The killers emptied their guns and sped away.

MAN GIVEN 60 DAYS IN JAIL, $100 FINE

A sentence of 60 days in jail and a fine of $50 was given Marion Piper of 461 West Center street in federal court at Toledo yesterday when he was found guilty of a charge of illegal possession of intoxicating liquor, according to an International News Service.

Piper was arrested by federal prohibition agents in a raid here several months ago and pleaded not guilty when arraigned in federal court later. C. T. Noyes of Alvada also arrested by federal prohibition men on a charge of violating the prohibition act, was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $100.

KANE IS INDICTED AS WIFE SLAYER

By The Associated Press
HAMPTON, Va., Oct. 7—Elisha Kent Kane, III, formally accused by the grand jury yesterday of "with malice aforethought" holding his wife, Jenny Graham Kane, under the water at Grand View beach until she was dead, probably will go on trial late this month.

During an all day session the grand jury heard 11 witnesses before bringing in the indictment. Giving the trial a place on the docket was deferred by Judge Vernon C. Spatley until today.

Kane, who is professor of romance languages at the University of Tennessee and son of Dr. Evan O'Neill Kane, Pennsylvania surgeon, was arrested a few hours after his wife's funeral and now is at liberty under $15,000 bond.

Call Lodge Meeting.

Plans to attend a state convention Saturday at Columbus will be made by Handusky Tribe No. 99, Improved Order of Red Men, at a called meeting Friday night. The lodge met last night for a business session.

'PEPPER' MARTIN CONTINUES AS THORN IN SIDE OF ATHLETICS

BY JOHN P. MEDBURY
(Copyright, 1931, by I. N. S.)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 7—Since last Friday, John Martin, St. Louis bad boy of the bases, has been practically running the world series, but today the Athletics put "Pepper" back in the can.

In the second inning Tuesday Mr. Martin walked up to the plate and fanned so hard that he changed all the weather reports.

Later on in the day he did manage to get a couple of hits and in the fifth inning stole a base in order to hold his franchise.

Earnshaw pitched a great game but got so twisted in his windups that once or twice he almost threw himself over the plate. I doubt if it would have made much difference though as the Cardinals were batting so poorly they probably couldn't have hit him either.

Connie Mack used a neat little piece of strategy to keep the St. Louis players off the bags. He hung a "scarlet fever" sign on all the bases. This runs worked with every man except Martin.—Scarlet fever doesn't mean a thing to John; he's color blind.

Max Bishop scored the first run for the Athletics. He wanted Manager Street to be able to keep the wolf from the door but he couldn't keep the Foxx from the home plate. Jimmy, wanting to show that there was no depression on the Philadelphia team, stepped up with his bat and knocked a valuable dollar and a quarter ball right out of the park. It was the hardest smack ever driven over Mr. Shibe's fence.

It was about this time that the Cardinal pitcher and catcher went into conference. It seems that the pitcher was throwing a lot of spit balls which were very obnoxious to the catcher. Wilson, however, was quite tactful and asked if he'd please dip the balls in Listerine before he threw them.

This particular ball was no doubt very repulsive to Mr. Foxx too, and please dip the balls in Listerine handy, decided that the best thing to do was to knock it out of the park.

This, however, is only hearsay. I couldn't get either the pitcher or catcher to confirm it as even your best friends won't tell you.

Chic Star Patterns

—: Practical and Simple :—

Smart Sleeves, Becoming Collar.

PATTERN 2007

For the woman seeking a chic frock with individuality and becoming lines, this model will be ideal developed in satin, canton crepe, velvet or a novelty woolen. The lovely collar, graciously softened by a strap of the fabric, the very new sleeves and the low pieced skirt godets forming a slender front panel, are interesting details to consider. A collar of white or green satin on black; gold on brown, or flesh on maroon will be stunning.

Pattern 2007 is obtainable only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 4¾ yards of 39 inch material, ⅝ yard contrasting.

My WINNING PLAY

what they are anticipating and pick our subsequent plays more effectively.

The "open" style of backfield array, with the two players to whom the ball may first be snapped stationed well back of the line, lends itself to the attack we plan to use this season better than the close-in style because of the personnel of our principal backs.

Pug Rentner and Rab Russell, who weren't available at the same time all last season, will necessarily be used together this year. Rentner, a threat to kick, pass, run or serve as feeder to a reverse play, will be the man 82 yards straight back from center, while Russell, closer in, will be an ever-present plunging threat.

The success of all this theory, of course, depends on the power we will be able to get in the line, which I am afraid will be much less than the experts are crediting us with.

We lost a lot of great material from our 1930 line and backfield.

Delegates and guests numbering about 100 are meeting today at the Legion dugout on south High street for the annual inspection and convention of the Sixteenth district, Woman's Relief corps. A dinner served at noon at Epworth M. E. church by members of Circle No. 1 was followed by a closed session which included the election of officers and the inspection of the tent.

The guests were welcomed at the opening session this morning by Mayor L. Dan Jones and the response was made by Mrs. E. Jane Bailey of Wapakoneta, past department secretary. Mrs. Myrtle Marlow welcomed the guests in behalf of the local tent and the response was made by Mrs. Mabel Birdsell of Delaware.

The morning session was devoted to reports from the district corps and registration and a memorial service for deceased members of the corps and auxiliaries.

Honor guests include Department President Mrs. Ruth Hanson of Columbus and Mrs. Lena Parker, state institute and installing officer also of Columbus, Mrs. E. J. Bailey of Wapakoneta, a past national officer, and several members of Cooper Post, No. 117, G. A. R.

Mrs. Myrtle Waterman of Richwood district president, is in charge of the afternoon session. Mrs. John L. Jolley is district vice president and Mrs. Maude Jacoby is president of the local corps.

Delegates are present from Marysville, Richwood, Delaware, Mt. Vernon and Marion, and guests include members of the Mt. Gilead corps.

"WHITE ELEPHANT" TOWN'S PROBLEM

Widow's Bequest Gives Village Officials Plenty of Worry.

By United Press

WATKINS GLEN, N. Y.—This village has a "white elephant" on its hands; a beautiful country estate it can't even give away.

In 1927, Mrs. Emma Magee, widow of a coal and railroad magnate, left her property, consisting of a large brick edifice, a casino, boat house, several barns, spacious lawns and a grove of shade trees, to the village for use "as the village fathers see fit."

The village fathers couldn't see any fit use for the property. Alarmed by criticism that the "taxpayer ought to be good for something," the village fathers paid the expenses of a delegation to go to Albany to offer the estate as "a gift from the village."

The estate, state representatives were told, was ideal for a normal school. The state was not impressed.

Somebody learned recently that the state needed a mental defective's school site. Messages were sent to Albany.

Village politicians are awaiting word that a benevolent state will at last accept the "white elephant."

BOYS WITH MATCHES START SMALL FIRE

Two six-year-old boys playing with matches are responsible for a small blaze at the home of Tom Kerrigan at 295 west Church street late yesterday afternoon.

The boys with their matches climbed into the hayloft of a barn at the rear of the property and after piling up several magazines and paper, set fire to the pile. Firemen from the central No. 2 station who responded to a call sent in by neighbors when they saw smoke coming from the open barn door, confined the blaze to the papers. No damages resulted.

Its power supplied by a six volt storage battery, an outboard motor has been specially designed for canoes and light rowboats.

THEY'RE MILDER. The best Turkish and Domestic tobacco that money can buy is put into Chesterfield. Chesterfield tobacco is the finest-textured, the smoothest and ripest that grows—ripened and sweetened in the sunshine, cured right by the farmer and aged right for two years in wooden hogsheads. Mellow—and wonderfully mild!

THEY TASTE BETTER. These mild, smooth tobaccos are put together exactly right. The aroma of Turkish, the mellow sweetness of Domestic—blended and cross-blended. How it's done is Chesterfield's secret—but millions know how much better it tastes!

THEY'RE PURE. Everything that goes into Chesterfield is tested by expert chemists. The purest, finest cigarette paper made; a clean, tight-sealed package. "Pure as the water you drink."

THEY SATISFY. The package . . . neat, clean. The cigarettes . . . well-filled. The paper . . . pure white. And with your very first puff, you notice they taste better. Pleasing and satisfying—Chesterfields just seem to suit you, right down to the ground.

Four hits—four good things about every Chesterfield cigarette. Remember: They are Milder—Taste Better—Pure—Satisfy.

Many in Want as Winter Nears

Below are three of a series of actual case histories of Marion families as investigated by the Family Welfare society. These articles will appear from time to time to show the importance of the support of Marion citizens to the Family Welfare society and its work. The three histories show the ill health that has stricken Marion homes because of lack of sufficient food and of worry over financial troubles in the coming winter. Names and addresses have been omitted.

* * *

Mr. A., after years of faithful service in a Marion plant, was laid off last winter because of his advanced age. Every penny he had been able to save had gone to buy a home for himself and his aged wife. With only a few hundred dollars to pay before the home was actually his, unemployment entered into the family worry. No mortgages or loans could be given on the little home he had worked so many years to make his own.

His wife, always in delicate health, today is in advanced stages of tuberculosis. A Marion physician definitely told the Welfare society investigator that the disease had become active because of lack of proper food and worry over finances.

The crisis has come in this family because, faced with eviction, with no gas or electricity, their daughter, whose husband has deserted her, has come to live at the home with her two small sons. Another daughter who had helped her parents financially can no longer do so. Her husband has lost his job and they are now dependents of the city. Any food which welfare agencies are able to give the family they feel sure is given the children.

* * *

A young couple of Marion with five children is faced daily with death in their home. The husband has developed tuberculosis in its most advanced stages.

The husband had been unemployed for months and the wife, so discouraged at the futile outlook of the future, went to work in a Marion factory at wages inadequate to maintain the family. Baby and mother both became sick and the mother was forced to give up her work.

A few weeks after this calamity struck the home, the husband became sick. A doctor was consulted and the county tuberculosis nurse investigated the case. Conditions due to unemployment have faced this young father with certain death unless eggs and milk and fresh air are his daily. The nurse has separated him from his family, keeping him in a room apart, but the necessary foods cannot be given him.

Now, with winter coming on at a brisk pace this family of seven is to be evicted from their home. Tragedy stalks them at every point, and conditions have become desperate.

* * *

A father's love for his seven small children has kept him from sending them to the Children's home. This Marion man, whose wife died recently is trying to keep his family of children together, never forgetting that a family once parted, never has the same closeness of a family brought up together.

He is a self-respecting citizen of Marion, employed many years in a factory here until employment conditions become critical and he was out of work. The fear of losing his children and the daily worry of feeding them has told on him.

One of his children, a boy of 12 has developed tuberculosis, and the younger children, underweight and undernourished are susceptible to the dread disease.

This summer the boy was placed in a country home and the disease was arrested by the nourishing food and fresh air, but since he has come home, the old symptoms have become active and the child's health is again becoming critical.

The children are devoted to their father and often talk of the time when they will be grown up and help their "dad" share the family burdens so that he won't worry so much.

An exposition will be held in Poland in 1931 to educate the mass of the population to various modern developments in home construction.

SOUR stomach

IF fear of what will follow overshadows the enjoyment of your meals, your system may be too acid.

Those pangs of indigestion right after eating and that lump you feel in your stomach for hours after, the flatulence and sourness, are the symptoms of over-acidity. Take an anti-acid and neutralize the excess acid. You won't be comfortable until you do.

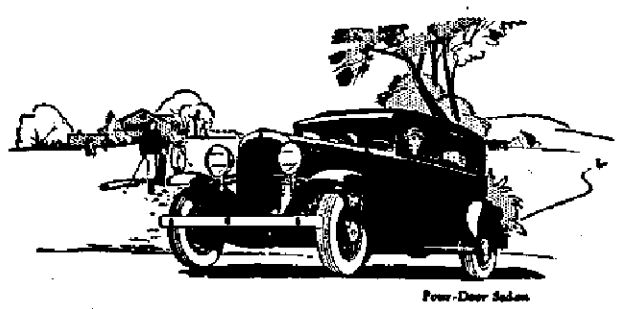
Phillips' Milk of Magnesia will always check that condition of over-acidity. It acts pleasantly, but promptly and most effectively. It supplies needed alkali to neutralize excess acids of the stomach and bowels. Headaches, flatulence, and nausea are promptly relieved. Your digestion will speedily improve. Your appetite will be sharpened. Constipation quickly yields to the gentle laxative effect of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Many make a practice of taking a spoonful or two before meals one or two days weekly. It is a delightful way to keep the system always sweet; and to keep the bowels from growing sluggish; Also to guard against auto-intoxication.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia will check a cold in a hurry. Just take a spoonful at three-hour intervals until that weak, achy, feverish condition is gone and your head is all clear.

Get a bottle today; read the directions and learn Phillips' Milk of Magnesia's many important uses. For you and the whole family. 25c and 50c, bottles can be obtained at drug stores everywhere.—Adv.

MORE THAN A QUARTER OF A MILLION OWNERS HAVE LEARNED TO DEPEND ON THIS GREAT ENGINE



Four-Door Sedan

The powerful six-cylinder engine which is responsible for Oldsmobile's spirited performance is representative of the most advanced type of engineering. It offers important features—including down-draft carburetion, a counter-weighted crankshaft, and a carburetor-silencer—which contribute to greater power, smoothness, and silence + + Yet with all its outstanding performance abilities—with all its up-to-the-minute mechanical advancements—the engine in today's Oldsmobile is identical in fundamental design with that splendid power plant which has won the confidence and praise of more than a quarter of a million Oldsmobile owners during the past three years. For that good reason, you can be assured when you enjoy Oldsmobile's brilliant speed and thrilling acceleration, that this fine all-round performance will be a lasting advantage of Oldsmobile ownership.

COURT WILL PAY WAGE ASSIGNMENTS

$1,800 To Be Distributed to 600 Creditors.

The writing of nearly 600 checks necessary in order to distribute approximately $1,800 to creditors in wage assignment cases in municipal court, was expected to be completed today and the quarterly distribution of the checks to start within the next few days.

As in former years, the amount to be distributed is greater than any of the other three payment quarters, but about the same as the same quarter last year.

The $1,800 represents money paid into the court by persons upon whose wages assignments have been made by creditors, and the money is distributed in proportion to the size of the accounts. The wage assignment system of settling accounts was created with the establishing of the municipal court several years ago and is said to have proven much more satisfactory than the old garnishee system formerly used.

ground. The state was searched for white pine to replace the old floor. Ancient desks were found, but only five of them. Ford workmen made 25 replicas of the five authentic pieces of a past generation. An old brass hand bell, such as called the children from recess decades ago was located. Even the paint on the wainscoating is the same shade as when Cody taught the school.

When the school was opened this fall 30 children were on hand for the first class. Ford and Cody attended as did many old timers and a few of the one-time teachers.

AGED OHIOAN SEES WORK BEAR FRUIT

Pioneer in Aid for Crippled Children Views Evidence of Achievement.

By United Press

DETROIT—A gray haired feeble old gentleman from Ohio wandered through the Children's hospital of Michigan the other day, his eyes lighting up with pleasure as he noted the modern devices for aiding and treating the maimed children.

It was Quincy Stubbs of Cincinnati, 84. He looked with justifiable pride on the modern buildings and scientific care for in the United States he probably has spent more time fighting for crippled children than any other person.

Stubbs' uphill fight for deformed children began in 1896 when he was a poor laboring man without sufficient funds to purchase a $40 brace for his daughter Clara suffering with curvature of the spine.

"When I could not buy the brace I canvassed hospitals for aid," Stubbs said, "but there was none coming. There were no provisions for poor children. I guess the rich were taken care of but the poor had to shift for themselves."

It was then Stubbs began a campaign for children's aid in Ohio. It was 19 years before his fight bore fruit. Today many states have hospitals for crippled children.

AIRPLANES ROAR IN OHIO FILM

The spies have it again in "Men of the Sky," coming to the Ohio Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The war takes the air with two spies, Irene Delroy and Jack Whiting around which the story is built.

Jack Whiting

Jerome Kern and Otto Harbach responsible for many of the dramatic and melodious hits of the times, created "Men of the Sky" as their first contribution to the screen and First National produced their story.

Miss Delroy made her debut as a toe-dancer with Mary Garden in grand opera, later with Galli Curci and Rosa Raisa. Whiting is an ex-Follies man and a Broadway success in legitimate musical comedy and vaudeville productions.

Among the books Harbach has written for shows are "No No Nanette," "Rose Marie," "The Desert Song," "Kid Boots." Up in Mabel's Room" and 75 others. Alfred E. Green director of the picture, has among his successes, "The Green Goddess," "The Man from Blankley's" and "Old English."

GAYNOR FARRELL BETTER THAN EVER

The more than popular co-starring team of Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell makes its most recent bow to Marion fans in "Merely Mary Ann" in the Palace theater through Thursday.

Farrell takes the role of an eccentric young composer in financial straits and Miss Gaynor portrays the part of a house maid in the London lodgings where he lives. Miss Gaynor takes the brunt of abuse in the early part of the story, but better times come when a theme for an operetta by Farrell is accepted by a prominent producer. The action then changes to the coast of England where some attractive scenes are filmed. One of the most touching parts of the story comes when Farrell's operetta, "Mary Ann" named after the heroine is produced with Miss Gaynor as part of the audience.

Some effective drama and romance are furnished by these capable players and the music throughout the play is very good. A William Tilden short, a Billy House comedy, screen song and news reel wind up the program.

PRIEST IS MAYOR OF TEXAS TOWN

By United Press

PORT LAVACA, Tex.—A Catholic priest is mayor of this thriving Texas coast city.

Father D M Buckley priest of the Church of Our Lady of the Lake was chosen by the city commission to fill the unexpired term of a mayor who died.

Now he serves his own church two missions 60 miles apart holds office in the Rotary club contributes to the newspaper, and finds time to arrange for such matters as installation of gas and sanitary sewer systems.

His official duties include those of police judge but the town has no wrongdoing of enough importance to demand trials. Before his term of office ends in April Father Buckley plans to create a Junior Chamber of Commerce pass a new milk ordinance and do something to help agriculture.

He does not intend to run for reelection.

Father Buckley has lived here three years. A Protestant city commission started the petition asking his appointment.

"JOKE" DIVORCE FEE KICKS BACK

By United Press

RENO, Nev.—When Speaker Doug Tandy introduced a measure in the 1921 session of the Nevada state legislature, purely in jest, fixing a maximum of $35 as attorney's fees in uncontested divorce actions, he started something that has not yet stopped.

Many persons all over the nation believed the bill was passed and is the law today. Attorneys have been annoyed by that joke ever since.

When a lawyer quotes his fee of $200 or so he is very apt to receive a very indignant reply that he has no right to charge such a fee when the law provides a maximum of $35.

Once or twice, such misinformation has accomplished disastrous results. People come here with bare expenses figuring on a $35 divorce, and learn that they have been in error about the fee.

Moratorium, Reduction, Cancellation.

A statesman can not admit that a difficult predicament represents an impasse—a blind alley from which there is no escape.

The European debt situation, nevertheless, is just that—an impasse. Every one is seeking a satisfactory way out, and, so far as any one knows, there is none. The United States and the great nations of Europe are caught in a net of their own making and, to complete a depressing picture, the United States is being held accountable for the damages.

The Hoover administration, it is reported, is about to ask for an extension of the debt moratorium it proposed last June when such action became necessary to keep Germany solvent. This would mean, if it happened, that the European financial situation again has become acutely dangerous.

Reason, unmixed with sympathy, has warned American taxpayers from the outset that the war debt would be moratorium, reduction and cancellation. As a wag puts it, "When the United States timidly asks Europe about fifty years from now, 'What about those war debts?' Europe will looked puzzled and inquire, 'What war debts?'"

But there is another kind of reason—the kind that international bankers and the administration are using. The plain fact, pleasant or not, is that the United States has loaned Europe so much money that Europe has the United States in its power. President Hoover knows what every student of European conditions knows, that Germany is on the brink of bankruptcy, and that if financial pressure is too strong it will topple. Bankruptcy is, furthermore, acumination of the galling post-war recriminations heaped upon the German people that would be welcomed by many of them. They would be able to wipe the slate clean and start over again, an attractive course compared to the long period of reparations which they face now.

It was to prevent German bankruptcy that the United States proposed a moratorium of debts last summer. It required courage to admit that this country had been fooled so dangerously in the net of European war folly, but it cleared the air temporarily. It proved to Europe, too, that the United States was not a "Shylock" creditor. That role has been shifted temporarily to France.

That is the impasse faced by the statesmen. They are anxious to protect American interests by supporting a policy designed to keep Europe solvent, but they are anxious also to protect American interests by supporting a policy designed to keep the unpaid cost burden of the World war from being borne, ultimately, by American taxpayers. There is no way out of the dilemma that is visible at the present. In making a way, and one must be made, statesmen will do well to shape their course with an eye to the good of the greatest number of American people. Europe's fatal mistakes have caused this nation endless trouble already, and until European nations show greater aptitude for eliminating the causes of their problems American statesmen will do well to give domestic problems the bulk of their attention.

An Interest in the Government.

Agitation to broaden the income tax base by lowering personal exemptions is justified in theory by the argument that it gives the "small" taxpayers thus affected a direct interest in their government. It will be recalled that Senator Bingham, of Connecticut, has favored the imposition of "nuisance" taxes for a similar reason—to make taxpayers realize that the government costs money.

The first income tax under the Sixteenth amendment allowed a personal exemption of $3,000 for an unmarried person and $4,000 for a married person. No additional exemption for children or other dependents was allowed. That was in 1913.

More "small" taxpayers were made to realize that they had a direct interest in the government in 1917 when the exemptions were lowered to $1,000 for a single person and $2,000 for a married person. In addition, $200 was allowed for each dependent. Incidentally, this was an interesting recognition of the fact that two people can not live as cheaply as one, which appeared to be the case when the first income tax was drawn.

In 1921, the exemptions were raised again. By 1924, the single person's exemption was $1,000 and the married person's $2,500. It then was considered more than twice as expensive for two people to live together than to live alone.

Again in 1926 and 1928 the "small" taxpayers' interest in government was overlooked when exemptions were jacked up to $1,500 for a single person, and $3,500 for a married person. Now it appears that the exemptions may slide back down again. The government's anxiety about the interest of individuals in government appears to vary in direct proportion with the needs of the treasury.

Fast Drivers.

Some studies made by the state university have started people to thinking about the safety ratio between fast and slow driving again. It doesn't take much to open the question because it is always there wherever automobiles are dodging each other.

The university's studies showed, among many things, that the slow driver is involved in more accidents than the fast driver. This demands an explanation, or rather a qualification of the phrase "fast driver."

There are, perhaps, three general classes of fast drivers, with as many degrees of safety in their driving performances.

The first kind is the capable, conscientious driver who is always in control of his car and who is strongly convinced that the best rule of the road is the golden rule. He likes speed, but he likes safety better. He rarely gets into jams. If all drivers were like him a lot of traffic problems would disappear instantly.

Then there is the fast driver who is not conscientious and may not be capable. He endangers the lives of every one on the road, is devoted to speed, and is oblivious to the desirability of safety. He gets into one jam after another, and sooner or later is involved in something serious. His type is represented fairly by the smart-alec schoolboy cutting around traffic on Sunday afternoons in a fast roadster.

The third general type may be designated as the casual fast driver. He is, on the whole, as dangerous, if not more so, than the unconscientious fast driver, because usually he is in a hurry, it's a "beautiful" stretch of road, or perhaps he just feels like going fast. So he opens up, and quite frequently has an accident when the unexpected happens. It teaches him a lesson—but too late.

The important thing to remember therefore, when fast drivers are extolled as the safest drivers, is that all fast drivers aren't capable drivers. Motorists who clog up highways with their twenty-five-miles-hour speed may cause accidents, but no one knows what might happen if they all cut loose at the maximum speed. More rapid movements of traffic eventually will ease traffic problems, but not until drivers can speed up safely.

Constructive Criticism.

The commission on social justice of the central conference of American rabbis, heeding and interpreting the ethical conscience of American Jews, recommends certain specific measures of social justice to relieve the present economic distress. "If we are in the least faithful to our great prophetic heritage, if our vaunted tale as preachers of righteousness and social justice means aught but words and idle boasting, the synagogue must sound in the ears of its members and of society as a whole its word of dire condemnation of an economic order which produces so much suffering. It must issue a challenge to its own people and all men not only to lament but to do something immediate and fundamental to put an end to these recurrent calamities," the message explains.

The commission recommends:

"A gigantic program of public works, far in excess of anything yet proposed," to be financed by a bond issue of from three to five billion dollars.

The immediate institution of unemployment insurance.

Regulation of production by shortening the working day and the working week.

An adjustment of the distribution of the profits of industry.

This constructive criticism of the present economic order, which now appears more as economic disorder by the absolute standards of social justice as conceived in the heritage of Jewish thought, is valued highly by those economic leaders, voluntary and appointed, who are seeking solutions for the material maladjustment which makes extensive charitable effort necessary in a time of bounteous plenty.

It is not necessary that there be universal agreement on each recommendation. The important thing is that the religious leaders among the Jews are standing ready to do all in their power to help in the task of adjusting the social order to its current pressures and stresses.

Editorial Opinion.

THE POOR MOTORIST.

A paid propagandist uses much space in manifold circular form this week to show that "the poor motorist" is the scapegoat of taxation. The car driver sits in the most luxurious vehicle yet built. His speed exceeds that of railroad trains. Thousands of millions of dollars have been spent to make his track smooth and safe and pleasant. He is given the right of way through city and country alike, while pedestrian and baby carriages, and even electric and steam cars respectfully wait. Roads and streets are lined with conveniences for him. His automobile has parking space free on every avenue and thoroughfare in the country. His warning horn drives every animate thing out of his path. Considering these things, the license fee of $15 or so is moderate. The gasoline tax is under the driver's own control based on mileage. Let the poor motorist do his own wailing over his taxes.—Fergus Falls Tribune.

OUR GREAT FRUIT CROP.

This is not a year when an abundant fruit crop should be marked by thousands of bushels rotting on the ground beneath the trees. The experience of last winter, with another winter of hard times for the unemployed sure to follow is decisive against any wasting of such healthful food as our orchards are now supplying.

We are glad to see that large numbers are already taking advantage of the very low price at which this fruit can be bought and that many of our fruit farmers are showing a generous spirit in giving fruit for canning to persons whom they know to be unable to pay even the small price at which it is sold. Others who have empty fruit jars which they are not going to use are making these jars available free of cost to persons who have not the means with which to buy jars at the stores.

It should not be forgotten, under such circumstances that the old fashioned dried apples, so common fifty years ago, are a nourishing article of food, and very cheaply prepared. After being thoroughly dried they must, of course, be kept where they will be free from moisture.

In times of stress during the coming winter, we should be somewhat ashamed if we had to look back and chide ourselves with allowing thousands of tons of fine fruit to rot on the ground here in Ohio because it was too plentiful to find a market.—Columbus Dispatch.

ONE CUT CALLS FOR ANOTHER CUT.

Facts About Governor William Allen.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

Several remarkable facts stand out in the life of William Allen, Ohio representative in congress, United States senator and governor. He was but thirty-two years of age when the Democrats nominated him for congress. His opponent was the veteran Whig politician, General Duncan McArthur, who had already served the state as its governor. In spite of the fact that the district was strongly Whig young Allen was elected. It was a spectacular campaign and Allen's majority consisted of but a single vote. But it stood and he was seated.

His first love was Miss Effie McArthur, the daughter of the governor, but something came across the path of their love and she married another. After two terms of service in the lower house of congress, Allen was elevated by the legislature to the senate. For twelve years he sat in the senate. Governor McArthur's daughter was by this time widowed, and Senator Allen renewed his suit with success, and he became the son-in-law of the man he defeated for congress.

With his wife Fruit Hill, a fine country estate on which General McArthur had spent much money and care, came to Senator Allen and it was his home for the rest of his life.

However his married life was quickly broken by the death of Mrs. Allen. It occurred in Washington at the birth of their first child. On horseback Senator Allen bore her body from Washington to Chillicothe for burial. It was the great tragedy of his life, and he never married again.

Then followed a long period of retirement from public life. He was thirty-nine years old at this time and it was in 1873 when he was closely approaching the three-score and ten mark that his Democratic friends prevailed upon him to accept their nomination for governor and he was elected over Edward F. Noyes, Republican serving but a single term. R. B. Hayes also called from retirement by the Republicans defeated him in 1875.

Twenty Years Ago.

It was Saturday, October 7.

Miss Edith Reeder, of Kirkpatrick, and Mr. Shirley Carmine, of near Bucyrus, were married by Rev. Charles Cole.

Walter Scott Lodge Knights of Pythias conferred the rank of page on three candidates at a big meeting held here by Marion Lodge, No. 402 Knights of Pythias. Fourteen automobile loads came here from LaRue for the affair.

The Marion County Bank company was made a depository of the United States government under the new postal bank system.

R. O. Keenan, aged thirty-five, was very badly hurt in a collision with another bicyclist on east Center street.

Somebody entered the candy store and restaurant of S. S. Trump on south Main street and made off with $7.45 which was in the cash register.

Marion won the baseball tournament held at Bucyrus by defeating the Bucyrus team four to one and the Tiffin team two to one.

Miss Leonard was hostess to the Twiggs at her home on south Prospect street. The honors at cards went to Mrs. Ralph A. Young.

Scientific Notes.

Louisiana is increasing the production of storax, gum obtained from sweet or red gum trees and used in some medicines, perfumes and soaps and for flavoring tobacco.

Two Swedish paper manufacturers have developed processes for making transparent papers resembling parchment and a parchmentized kraft paper has been perfected in Germany.

A Californian has designed strip maps for aviators mounted on rollers and displayed behind sheets of glass to prevent them being damaged by wind in open cockpit airplanes.

The first factory in the United kingdom for the production of glass wool primarily for heat insulation in ships locomotives and engine rooms, has been opened at Glasgow.

Iowa engineers have developed a method for raising sunken surfaces of concrete roads to their former levels by forcing mud and cement under them with a gasoline driven pump.

With forty-three broadcasting stations and approximately 400,000 receiving sets in use Argentina leads all South American countries in radio development and ranks fourth among all nations.

Parachute equipment weighing less than 200 pounds has been invented to enable an aviator to right a falling airplane and bring it safely to the ground at a speed of sixteen feet a second.

Actuated by mechanical instead of sound vibrations, a telephone transmitter invented in Europe for use in noisy places is placed against a speaker's cheek or throat instead of his lips.

Three University of Illinois scientists have developed a process for using the acid obtained from hard cider in the manufacture of artificial silk.

Electrical Fixtures and Bathing.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

It is almost a daily experience to read of a sudden death, perhaps of one who has been electrocuted in the bathtub. The number of deaths from electricity every year runs well up into the thousands in North America.

A committee created by the American Society of Safety Engineers has been organized to study this problem. These men have carefully investigated the cases that have been reported. They found that out of one hundred such accidents, thirty-one occurred in the bath room.

Most of these occurred when the individual, whose body was wet, attempted to turn on an electric light. In this way he received an electric shock. Usually the power was 110 volts, but in many cases an even lower voltage was sufficient to cause instantaneous death.

Standing in water, the victim reaches for an electric switch or fixture. As a result of some defect, the contact made is sufficient to send the current through the body.

The electric current has such intensity as to shock the heart, so that its muscles are damaged. The muscles of the heart are sent into rapid vibration, preventing that organ from contracting and expanding.

When the skin is dry and only a small area of the body comes in contact with the low voltage wire nothing of a serious nature can happen. It is only when the skin is wet, or if there is an open or moist cut or abrasion of the skin that the electricity will do harm.

Everybody should be warned to avoid any contact with electric wires or fixtures under these conditions. Please remember, when taking a bath not to touch the light switch.

Another common danger is that attaching to portable electric heaters curling irons or heating pads which are kept in the bathroom. It is exceedingly easy for one to electrocute himself by handling any of these appliances while in the bathtub, or while the body is moist. Under such circumstances these contrivances are dangerous. They should be used only when the body is well clothed and dry.

Accidents may be caused, too, by handling other electrical appliances while the hands are moist. While washing dishes, a housewife may receive a shock when reaching up with wet hands to adjust an electric fixture.

During warm weather, when the hands are moist as a result of extensive perspiration, it is dangerous to handle an electric fan or vacuum cleaner. Contact under such conditions may result in a severe shock.

There is no doubt there has been too much negligence in the handling of electrical appliances in the household. It is hoped that more rigid care and supervision of these appliances, both by the manufacturers as well as by the users, will eliminate the number of deaths from electric current.

A little care and forethought will prevent many unnecessary accidents. Warn your family against these dangers. Be warned yourself.—Copyright, 1931, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

MRS. A. C. Z. Q—What do you advise for falling hair?

A—Brush the hair daily and use a good tonic. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for full particulars and repeat your question.

J. P. W. Q—Is buttermilk fattening? It seems to agree with me where the sweet milk does not. I drink about one and a half quarts of buttermilk daily. Is it harmful in the case of a patient who is suffering from kidney trouble?

2—Is cottage cheese fattening?

A—No, since the butter fat has been taken out. If it agrees with you there would seem to be no reason to discontinue its use.

2—Not unless cream is added.

A. B. C. Q—Of what benefit are oranges? Are they beneficial to the system? What foods are apt to produce an acid condition?

A—Oranges are rich in vitamins and valuable salts. Yes, the vitamin content is of general benefit to the system and body. Excessive sugars and some fruits are acid forming, but each system is different and must be studied and treated accordingly. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Mueller and Physiology.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

There are certain branches of knowledge which seems to grow by process of mere accretion. These facts, those data, the results of certain experiments, the findings of the laboratory—all these bits of information keep accumulating until a very considerable mass of information is available in a given field of knowledge. But a mass of disordered and separate facts do not constitute a science any more than a heap of stones makes a cathedral. What is needed is an organizing mind which correlates and associates these facts. Such a scientific organizer was Mueller, who brought order out of chaos, and formulated binding principles and laws in the vast field of physiology.

Johannes Mueller was born at Coblenz, Germany, on July 14, 1801. He was originally destined for the ministry, but soon abandoned that profession for medicine and biology. He studied at the University of Bonn, taking his degree there in 1822. After studying medicine and physiology at the University of Berlin, he returned to Bonn becoming in turn tutor, assistant professor, and finally in 1830 professor in the University of Bonn. In 1833 he returned to Berlin, and took the chair of anatomy and physiology at the University there, retaining this post until his death on April 28, 1858.

Mueller's studies, like those of most physiologists, were very-wide-ranging. He entered the field of comparative anatomy, studying various fishes and sea-urchins. He made an extended study of cartilage, the firm elastic substance which constitutes so much of bodily tissue, especially in the early stages; and showed its cellular nature as well as the methods by which it is formed. As Van Wagener points out in "Beacon Lights of Science," he discovered the prorephric ducts in the kidneys, explained the nature of hermaphroditism, laid the foundation of the present knowledge of the embryology and the metamorphoses of the echinoderms, discovered the lymph hearts of the amphibious animals, the micropyle of the eggs of fishes, and made clear many other obscure living structures and organs.

Mueller's "Handbook of Human Physiology," which appeared in the thirties of the last century, rank as a notable scientific work. His greatest contribution to science was the discovery of the "law of specific nervous energy." It states the remarkable truth that the sensations we experience depend upon the innate powers of the sensory centers concerned, so that if any agent excites the center, for vision, for example, vision is experienced. The city of Coblenz erected a monument to Mueller's memory in 1890.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Oct. 7—There's one person close to Vice President Curtis in the capital who is not worrying particularly what decision he makes about politics in 1932.

She is a diminutive Kansas blond — Miss Lois Williams—the first woman ever to be secretary to the vice president of the United States.

Mr. Curtis again may be second man on the Republican ticket. Or he might decide to try for his old seat in the senate. But to Miss Williams it makes little difference.

"After all," she says, "it will be just the same. The boss will be the boss, and my job will be as pleasant as it is now, because he is that kind of a boss."

That's what she said when Mr. Curtis was elected vice president. She knows of no reason why she should change her mind now.

* * *

Essentially feminine, for with all her efficiency Miss Williams wears clothes well and is good to look upon, she has long been a vital force in the Curtis office personnel.

She has taken the stump in Kansas when he was up for reelection, and her rise to chief of his capitol office staff is attributed to her initiative and perseverance.

The "boss" says she is the best secretary he ever had, because she "knows how to deal with people." And that's, coming from a veteran in politics like Curtis, means something.

"She knows what to tell people when I am out," says the Vice President. "She knows what to do with the mail—people write me about the efficiency with which she handles things."

As for Miss Williams, she insists that her success is due to the virtues of the boss. She is frankly proud of the fact that she is the first woman secretary to a vice president, but her rise in rank means little where the future is concerned.

If the Vice President again becomes the senator from Kansas, then she'll be with him.

* * *

Incidentally, women secretaries to United States senators are by no means a novelty on "The Hill." Veteran senators more and more are entrusting the care of their offices to them.

Borah, of Idaho, relies on a woman to keep his office functioning properly. The two senators from California—Johnson and Shortridge—both employ women secretaries.

McNary, of Oregon, George, of Georgia, Blaine, of Wisconsin, Dale, of Vermont, Glenn, of Illinois, Moses, of New Hampshire; Shipstead and Schall, of Minnesota, are among others. Mrs. Schall is her husband's secretary.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Oct. 7—New York, like London, is besieged by an army of curb merchants. For a time save along the library wall on Forty-second street, they had almost vanished. The fresh recruits followed the apple-sellers who were given the freedom of the city for a time.

They are chiefly men superior to the calling and marking time until something better turns up. The best "pitches" are in congested districts during lunch hour and home-going rush. Any number show a pathetic nervousness and unprofessionalism.

Every imaginable gim-crack is offered—fountain pens, pencil sharpeners, neckties, sox, toys, cigar lighters and the like. Old-timers, of course, work their cappers, but novices often just stand a little sheepishly holding out their wares.

Efforts to catch the economical eye among the seasoned spielers are often ingenious. Near the Flatiron building today a well-dressed man began clapping his hands sharply and motioning passersby to stand away from a lane he had formed.

Then gravely he laid a coin on the sidewalk, walked a half dozen steps and placed another coin. By this time he had formed a hyena-like circle of curious. Picking up the coins he began his spiel with "I'm going to show how you also can pick up money along the street."

In no time at all he was offering "fifty-cent linen handkerchiefs for a dime." "All those buying," he cried, "pick up forty cents." The ancient prize package swindle is also revived, and it is surprising how many fall for it.

Planted five-dollar bills are placed in twenty-cent packages of pop-corn. These are sold to innocent-looking shills who open them before departing and extract the prize in view of suckers. Rubes for years have been laughing at this at county fairs. But it still clicks here.

* * *

In Over-the-Rhine Cincinnati days there was a blind and forlorn street merchant who hawked patented needle-threaders demonstrating them and giving to each purchaser "an album of 200 popular songs absolutely free." He had one of those minstrel tenor voices and would collect crowds by singing such favorites as "Take Back Your Gold," "On the Banks of the Wabash," and "Under the Bamboo Tree." I often walked to his pitch near Peoples theater at noon to listen and frequently wondered what became of him. For some reason he stood out as a sort of hero. Several years ago I ran across him singing in a second-rate saloon in old Mexico, and billed as "Nugget Dan, the Blind Caruso of the Gold Fields."

* * *

I wonder if others who knew Cincinnati well have reflected upon the rhythmic roll of its street names and suburbs. No other city, to my notion, offers such a simple and beautiful diapason. I recall such thoroughfares as Race street, Reading road, Government square, Peoples corner, Fountain square, Front street, Pike street and Rose hill and suburbs such as Avondale, Mt. Auburn, Clifton, Walnut Hills, Price Hill, Winton Place, Norwood and Hyde Park. Its tenderloin, incidentally, was once Longworth street.

* * *

Yet thoroughfares are beglamoured by environment, I suppose. After all there is nothing very striking about Fifth avenue as a name. But it inspires wonder wherever mentioned. For sheer dash London's street nomenclature is unexcelled. Pall Mall, for instance. And Regent street, The Strand, Oxford Circus and Piccadilly. The ugliest named section is The Bronx in New York.

* * *

The most romantically named street in the world, I think, is Shanghai's Bubbling Well road. It suggests pale moonbeams on dipping sampan paddles, the crystal spatter of sitars and softly whispered nothings. Tommy Millard tells of his first drive along it in a rickisha. He was keyed to a charming sentimentality by the companionship of an equally charming lady. A long silence stole over them only broken by the lady's "So far I haven't tamped a single chop suey joint."

Changed Aspect of Leningrad.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

Though the soviet government, with its five-year plan and ambitious program for complete change from the Russia that was, is metamorphosing its cities as rapidly as possible, Leningrad—the St. Petersburg of Czarist days—retains many outward semblances of its imperialistic past.

Let us take, for example, the famous Nevsky Prospect. This street in the days of the Romanoffs, was one of the most glittering and famous boulevards in the world. It was lined with jewelry shops. Today the pretentious old buildings are all that remain. The street is now called October Prospekt.

And then there are the palaces—those huge edifices that once loomed against the sky as evidences of the mighty power of the royal family. A strange thing about Leningrad is that it contains mile after mile of these stately buildings and yet suffers from a housing shortage.

The palaces could accommodate thousands of workers but, as a matter of fact, they are uninhabitable for the most part and repairing them would be too expensive a procedure. A great many of the better-preserved palaces, however, are utilized for government offices. The more historic places are kept as museums.

The rooms of the great Alexander palace visited today, will be found to be exactly as they were of old. The Anichkof palace, home of the late Dowager Marie Fedorovna is retained as a Municipal museum. Everything is the same as when the Empress strode majestically through the rooms. Even her dresses, including her wedding gown, will be found in the clothes-closets.

Perhaps even more interesting is the Yusupoff palace where Rasputin, the "Black Monk," was done to death by assassins. There are here some splendid pictures and tapestries and a charming little theater.

You can visit the basement where the murderers set upon the man who was called the "real ruler of all the Russias." Unable to kill him by poison they dragged his form up a secret staircase and dragged him out upon the ice of the Neva river. Cutting a hole through the ice they shoved the grim man under.—Copyright, 1931, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Sampson-Dennis Wedding Solemnized at St. Mary's

THE marriage of Miss Alice Josephine Sampson and Thomas Eugene Dennis was solemnized with a low nuptial mass at 7 30 o clock this morning at St Mary's Catholic church The pastor, Rev Father W J Spickerman read the single ring ceremony and was the celebrant of the mass, which was attended by a large number of relatives and close friends of the couple

Early autumn flowers filled the vases on the altars and tall wicker vases holding fall bloom stood at each side of the entrance to the sanctuary, which was adorned with palms

As the guests were being seated Miss Madge O Brien played a program of organ music and for the processional and recessional played the "Wedding March" from "Lohengrin and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March She also played the accompaniments for Nelson G Irvin who sang "On This Day O Beautiful Mother,' "Ave Verum and Ah Whence to be the Bliss

Miss Sampson was lovely in a wedding gown of white angel skin satin fashioned with long sleeves and a court train The long bodice was caught at the waistline with a narrow belt held with a rhinestone clasp and the only ornament was a flower design wrought in the satin and caught at the left side of the long skirt just below the waistline with lilies of the valley Her veil of bridal illusion fitted her head in a cap shape and the chin band was held in place with clusters of orange blossoms Tiny knots of orange blossoms showered the veil which fell over the court train of her dress The only jewelry worn by Miss Sampson was a strand of seed pearls the gift of the bridegroom and she carried an ivory prayer book showered with tulle ribbon and lilies of the valley The prayer book was one carried by her mother on her wedding day

Miss Kathryn Sampson as maid of honor was her sister s only attendant Her gown was of chimney ite satin fashioned on lines similar to those of the bride s and a short jacket with a cape effect Her small hat was of velvet in the same shade as her gown and was trimmed with an ostrich plume in a burnt orange shade Her satin pumps were in the same shade as her dress and her long gloves were of white kid She wore a necklace of crystal and silver, the gift of the bride and carried an arm bouquet of Talisman roses tied with blue tulle Lawrence Moran acted as Mr Dennis' best man and the ushers were Thomas McGrath and Francis Hartman

The bride mother Mrs F C Sampson wore a gown of brown velvet trimmed with Duchess lace and her hat, gloves and accessories were in shades of brown

Following the mass a wedding breakfast was served at Ringer's Inn on south Prospect street for 40 guests The tables were decorated with gladioli and blue delphinium carrying out the bride's colors of apricot and blue

Mr and Mrs Dennis will take a short wedding trip and upon their return will make their home at 723 Windsor street. For traveling Mrs Dennis wore a frock of gray crepe made with a short jacket. Bands of fox fur trimmed the sleeves of the jacket and she wore a felt hat in tile shade gray reptile pumps and gloves in a harmonizing shade

Mrs Dennis has been complimented with a number of charming pre-nuptial affairs since the announcement of her approaching marriage She is the daughter of Mr and Mrs F C Sampson of 547 south Prospect street and is a graduate of St Mary's parochial school She attended Office Training school in Columbus and until recently was employed in the offices of the Erie Railroad Co

Mr Dennis is the son of Arthur Dennis of 460 Park street. He attended St Mary s parochial school and is employed at the Schulte Cigar store

Mr and Mrs Charles Dunn and children of Kermit, W Va. were out-of town guests in attendance at the wedding

When children won't eat—and won't gain weight—

Try This!

The youngster who has no appetite, probably has stasis A little fig syrup will soon correct this condition—then watch the child eat—and gain!

Mothers should never coax a child to eat Nature knows best. Remove the cause of a youngster s poor appetite—get rid of stasis Children who don t eat are sluggish Read what the "California treatment' is doing for sluggish, listless children in every part of the country!

A Pound a Week

Your child will eat well from the day and hour you conquer sluggishness But that girl or boy with furry tongue and a bad breath should not be dosed with salts!

Begin tonight, with enough pure fig syrup to cleanse the colon thoroughly Less tomorrow, then every other day, or twice a week, until the appetite, digestion, weight, complexion, tell you the stasis is gone. When a cold or other ailment has again clogged the system, fig syrup will soon set things to right

When appetite fails, tongue is coated white, eyes are a bilious yellow, California fig syrup will gently stimulate the colon muscles—and the child you used to coax to eat will fairly devour his food.

Just One If—The claims made for California Fig Syrup are true and it will do the same for you—IF you get genuine CALIFORNIA fig syrup Don t accept any of the substitutes

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

of Lee Chow Recalls
s of Another Day.

low wail of Lee Chow!
now! Lee Chow! came ps of the wounded Chinese ger who had just undergone mergency operation in
, I started violently and own volition, my eyes icky's face. For I knew,
s my husband associates of Lee Chow, the highess with Hugh Grant-
e close friend he was.
d caught the name. I
by the forbidding frown eared as if instinctively face, and as that low ice went on and on, my back along the trail
y this dastardly attempt which I feared would spite of the efforts of n.

Visit of Lee Chow

bered the first time I
Lee Chow when he ap-from nowhere at a beach
the sands near Bridge-nd had maneuvered the y to tell me that he was t of Hugh Grantland, faithful friend, except at I ever had had. He to me for aid, this highese, who for years had ed as Hugh's servant—
e had seen my name ostal cards which Hugh me whenever he changed
s, in his roving, adventurous travels. Never had this faithful friend written me a letter because he knew the intense, consuming jealousy which Dicky cherished toward him. But, having told me years before that he would always keep me informed as to his whereabouts, so that I might be able to summon him if I needed him he had taken the most innocuous method possible and from each new address sent me a picture postal card bearing only his address and his initials. He only broke the rule when he made a change so suddenly that there was no time for a card to reach me before he moved, then he invariably sent me a cable inscribed as were the postals.

A memorable experience had followed that first encounter with Lee Chow, who had appealed to me because he had lost all trace of his master. Still fresh in my memory was the trail which he, Lillian and I had followed—with Dicky's consent, because Lillian had shamed him by the recollection of Hugh's memorable service to us both in rescuing Junior from kidnapers. It was a trail which led into the hills of western New York and finally brought us to the man we sought. We found him mentally broken, physically ill, and the victim of a plot on the part of his stepmother and her son to deprive him of his vast inheritance. It was a service which I was so thankful to have been able to render because of the debt of gratitude which I owed him for my boy, but it was one which he had amply repaid afterward by his rescue of Mary, Dicky's niece, from the hands of Jack Leslie.

Hugh May Be Dead

For months now, ever since the reappearance of Jack Leslie in Mary's life and the brutal attack upon Noel which he had instigated, there had been the terrible little fear at my heart that Hugh was dead, for otherwise I did not see how Jack Leslie had dared to return to the United States. Hugh had taken him with him to the Orient after the memorable episode of the masked dancer in which Mary figured so dramatically, and had insured his remaining in the East both by the threat of what would happen to him if he returned and the payment of a monthly sum to him.

I knew that Lillian shared my fear that Hugh was dead and the coming of the Chinese messenger with the demand for Marion's lock box with its secret compartment had strengthened that belief. For the messenger was a man who formerly had been a henchman of Lee Chow's. He, himself, had told me that he was compelled to do the bidding of the men who had sent him, who were enemies of Lee Chow because Lee Chow had gone away and it was "not good to say his name," or the name of Hugh Grantland.

His terror at my refusal to give him the box which he had demanded was something pitiful and he had said that it would be "Velly bad for me, velly bad for you" when he had departed.

But the letter from Lee Chow which I had found pinned to the cushion of my car and the visit of the murderous Chinese with his demand for the return of the letter had led Lillian and me to the belief that the messenger had not returned to the men of whom he was so afraid and that in some way he had received information warranting his belief that a letter from him could be given by me to Lee Chow. We had felt, Lillian and I, upon seeing that letter, that we would soon see Hugh Grantland's faithful friend even if Hugh himself were no longer alive.

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

JUST like I knowed yesterday, today was Wednesday and the school week is more than half gone, and I wouldn't care if it was all gone. I told Jubilee all about it, and he tried to understand. I could tell that by the way he held his head on one side and wagged what he has got left of a tail, but I could see he was getting ready to bark if I didn't close my face, so I rolled him out of bed, and then I got out and got the rope and opened up the window, and there was such a cold breeze coming in off the lake that it almost froze his tail off, but I let him down and shut the window as quick as I could. That is what he gets for being a dog. Of course being a dog isn't his fault, but it isn't mine either, so he can't blame me for it. If I had talked to him till he had barked and my folks had found out that he sleeps with me it would of been all off and he would have to sleep out in the barn and shiver all night, and I wouldn't be so warm either, without him. A boy that sleeps with a dog has got to be careful to not let anyone catch him at it, but grownups who can do anything they want to and could have a lot of dogs to sleep with don't sleep with any. Which shows they aren't so very brite.

Today when we were coming back from the pasture we met Mrs. Curtiss and she was bringing some honey to Niba' house because she thought he must be sick from being hurt last Saturday, and when she saw him with us she said, "Well, I declare," and she tried to grab him and kiss him, but he twisted away and made her drop the honey, and before we could pick it up the dogs got their snoots into it, so it was spoilt. Then she told us it was for Niba anyway, and we were listening to her when Feeble scooped up a handful of the honey and came up behind Niba and plastered his face with it, and said, "I saved some of it for you, Niba." And then Niba got sore because we all laughed, and Niba glared at her, so that she came up to me and snuggled up against me and put one arm around me and said, "You won't let him bite me, will you?" and I told her I wouldn't, and then she kept petting me on the head and talking baby at Niba and him. Curtiss seemed about to go home, and then Beatrice said to Feeble, "Well, now, if you have got all the honey out of your hair, you can go home and wash it out," and Feeble said she would, and then Beatrice said to me, "Well, if you have got all the honey out of your hair, you can go home and wash it out," and I said I would, and then she said, "Well, I have got all the honey out of it, so I will
